V-Day UPenn 2010 • Until the Violence Stops

Dear Penn Student Groups,

Since 1998, Eve Ensler's The Vagina Monologues has evolved from a one-woman show to a worldwide movement. In 2009, over 4,200 V-Day benefit events took place produced by volunteer activists in the U.S. and around the world, educating millions of people about the reality of violence against women and girls. The effort continues to grow in 2010. College campuses and communities around the world continue to produce annual benefit performances of The Vagina Monologues to raise awareness and funds for anti-violence groups within their own communities.

For a decade, Penn has recognized the importance of stopping violence against women and girls in the Philadelphia community. For this reason, Penn V-Day donates 90% of proceeds to Philadelphia's only full-service rape crisis center, Women Organized Against Rape (WOAR). The remaining 10% goes to the 2010 International V-Day Spotlight Campaign, which supports the women of the Democratic Republic of Congo. Our production of The Vagina Monologues spreads the message to over 3,000 students, alumni, faculty, staff, and residents annually. Over the past three years, Penn V-Day has raised over $75,000 to stop the violence. Each year our commitment grows even stronger. This February marks the 10th year of Penn's participation in the V-Day global campaign.

This year, there are 70 women in the V-Cast and V-Crew who are spearheading the campaign on campus. Individually, each woman participates in performing arts groups, sports teams and literary publications, studies diverse majors, and belongs to sororities, societies, and other student groups. Together, we represent and connect many facets of Penn. Violence against women is in our backyard, our campus, and our city. We cannot stop violence against women and girls without donors like you. Please support your friends, classmates, and group members in this campus-wide effort to end the violence. This winter presents a challenge for Penn's campus. In the middle of economic crisis, we must mobilize Vagina Warriors from every group, department, organization, or greek community at Penn to make sure we will be able to provide WOAR with continued support.

V-Day is not a campaign just for women, or one that is meant to simply reprimand men. V-Day recognizes that men and women must work together to bring an end to violence against women and girls, and to create communities that engage in healthy dialogue and work to protect citizens of both genders.

This year we are launching "The $2 Challenge". We challenge every Penn student to donate at least $2 to stop the violence. That's it! $2 to help protect the women on Penn's campus, and in the greater Philadelphia community. $2 is less than a Bui's bacon, egg, and cheese sandwich, or a large HubBub coffee! We look to student groups to show solidarity in supporting an end to violence. Especially in light of the recent acts of sexual violence on campus this past semester, we encourage you to donate, get involved, and attend the show!*

Thank you for your support!

Sincerely,
